Obituary

The death of Clive Racher at the Carmargay hospital on Sunday morning, November 20, came as a shock to the community, as he was in perfect health until the morning of November 17 when he complained of not feeling well. On Saturday it was found he had contracted pneumonia and he was taken to the Carmargay hospital, but all that medical skill and loving hands could do were of no avail, he passed away on Sunday morning. Deceased, who was 10 years of age, was one of the popular young boys in the vicinity and will be greatly missed by his school mates as well as in his home. The funeral took place Monday afternoon, Rev. Peter Dawson officiating and interment took place in the local cemetery.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Racher, five sisters and three brothers are the immediate surviving relatives.

Obituary

The death of Mr. Linton Patterson, which occurred at Medicine Hat on Sunday morning, November 20, caused general regret throughout the community. Deceased contracted an illness which affected his lungs when he was 17 years of age, and was sent to Keith Sanatorium. He remained in the Sanatorium for six years and improved to such an extent that he took a position on the staff for one year, later accepting a position in Medicine Hat. He was a very ambitious boy and during his stay at the Sanatorium built a radio set. A hemorrhage of the lungs caused his death in his 23rd year.

Deceased is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Patterson and three sisters, Agnes, Margaret and Marion. Funeral services were held Wednesday, November 23, from the Community Hall to the local cemetery, Rev. Peter Dawson officiating.

Some Elk Hunt

By Archie Ruggles

E. B. Siler, M. Edenslof, Carmar Jordan and J. A. Ruggles returned from a very successful moose hunt Sunday night. The boys started out as Elk hunters, but an Elk's track invariably proved to be filled by a big Bull Moose with one exception, when Mr. Siler, after following a track for several hours, came upon what looked like an uprooted tree with the roots standing out in all directions, but suddenly the roots changed position and he realized a life's ambition, that is he had always wanted to shoot an Elk, in fact I have always been leary of calling myself an Elk in his presence on account of that ambition, and his ability as a hunter of big game. He should now rest on his laurels and give some one else a chance to kill something else but time when in the woods.

Mr. Edenslof, better known as "Shanty," got so far away from camp the first day that he contracted a pair of Charley Horne, and he says that they are hard to ride home on, anyway he had a hard time getting one dog by the other when he staggered in that night, and in the morning he requested that we take him out on the prairie for burial, as he detested muskies and wind falls. He says that he didn't mind trees when they were planted in nice orderly rows, but the way nature scatters them about they rather obnoxious to him. He claimed that at no time was he lost, but there were times when the sun set in the east and the creeks were running backwards.

Young Jordan says that the next time he goes hunting he is not going with such a successful bunch of hunters, as he always happened along after some hunter had his game down and he got in on the butchering part of the game, so he decided to leave his knife in camp, as without a knife he would be helpless as a helper and would thereby avoid a lot of dirty work, so from then on he hunted weekends and one evening as we were gathering in from several directions a combardant started in a nearby swamp. After Jordan had thrown out a smoke screen he was able to get close enough to his nose to get him down. And there he was without a knife, so from the depths of the swamp a cry arose for someone to bring a knife, so from the east came Si, from the west came Shanty and from the south came yours truly with knives ready.

Former Champion Resident Dies in California

Word was received recently by Mr. Wm Ulrich of the death of his brother, D. Ulrich at Los Angeles. He passed away on Thursday, November 18. Mr. Ulrich was well known in this vicinity as he operated an implement business in Champion for a number of years. He moved to Los Angeles in 1922 and has since that time made that city his place of residence. He is survived by his widow, three boys and three girls.

Canadian Banking System And The Way It Functions To Carry On Business Of The Country

(By Arthur J. Reynolds in Agricultural and Industrial Progress)

In the course of my duties as a banker it is my privilege to spend a good deal of time in the territory of my good neighbours in the United States. Over there at present, with one exception, no subject is engaging closer attention than that of banking. A sound banking system is, after all, the backbone of nations.

In my travels I find that next to our laws, our generous southern neighbours admire our banks. And rightly so, for in the period of business meritis through which we have all been passing the Canadian does not even stop to question, let alone admire, how marvelously our banks have stood the strain as compared with those of other countries. Our banking system was founded partly on principles enunciated originally by a great American, Alexander Hamilton, in 1791. In addition to this we also had the favourable experience of the branch banking system which enabled it to draw upon it, and not go into details of its evolution, but it is sufficient to say that even though it started out on safe principles, it was by no means perfect, and has taken years of growth and change to produce the good banks we have here today.

Under which we operate, is an elastic piece of legislation, allowing for revision or changes in the future to indicate their necessity. And even yet, it shall go on, and it shall be a vision of this Bank Act making such alterations or improvements as time or circumstances may deem advisable.

The purposes of a bank are fourfold: to provide a safe place for the public to keep their money and values; to loan its own money paid in to its shareholders; to provide the public safety at a profit; to act as an agent for the government.

The principle purpose, that of providing a safe place for the public to keep their money and values, is really the meaning of the word "bank." A modern bank is required for the safe-keeping of money, and the bigger the bank the better and more elaborate the arrangements are. Today, through the various devices utilized, the safety and value of the modern bank are almost impregnable. In addition to that, you will find the banks are also required to deposit books. These are really small compartments in a bank vault where the individual can store his own papers or valuables. In fact, he has the main key of his own for a mere trifling annual rent. So generally speaking, the safety of a bank from robbery is really the safety of the nation. However, internal robbery is to be provided against, and there is no money more dangerous than the one within the ranks, and the failure of banks caused by the failure of trust or mismanagement by its officers have been often the chief cause of the loss of the bank's assets. This is the character of a bank's staff. When we pick our staffs very carefully. We take young men of about 17 years of age from families of good antecedents, and put them in the bank's service. They go through a high degree of the profession, and in the formative years are carefully watched and guided by the bank's officers. The clerks develop an "esprit de corps" similar to that of a great school or a regiment. In addition to this we have internal inspection by our own officials, double checks on cash and securities, and head office inspection by Government, so that, all told, we also avoid many alarming losses from within our banks.

Now we come to the other number two, that of loaning the money paid in to the bank by its shareholders and to the public safety at a profit. This comprises the main work of the bank and is really the most arduous and responsible of its duties. The hazards in banking are many. Fraud on the part of its customers, strange as it is, is not as prevalent as many people think, but a bad crop, for instance, in Western Canada, generally leaves an agricultural community in a state of financial distress. There is always a big demand for money to be good times in the market. There is always a big demand for money to get in when property slackens. Now the Bank Act under which Canadian banks operate, lays down very stringent regulations regarding the amount a bank can loan. In broad speaking, a Canadian bank is supposed to supply only liquid mortgages, property or other securities. Loans of this sort are taken care of by other institutions as trust companies, insurance companies and the like. . . . The money is in various ways. For instance, a branch finances a lumberman to cut rough lumber and manufacture it, and he pays back when he has it. The textile manufacturer is financed to buy his raw wool. He pays when it is marketed in the form of yarn. The farmer is financed for his spring expenses. He pays from his crop in the fall. In fact, any industry that buys and sells for a quick turnover can be readily financed by the bank provided, of course, the industry is in good shape.

There is no word so hard on a Canadian.

Doukhobors Horrified At Thought Of Marring a Fly

Warden, spare that fly. That became the plea of Doukhobor women in the Nelson jail recently when they observed, to their horror, that the rooms of their dormitory and corridors were being equipped with flypaper. For Doukhobors literally would not harm a fly.

Taking life in any form or even employing animals in any kind of service is contrary to the principles of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor cult. That explains why their women work in the fields like draught animals, hauling ploughs and wagons. That explains why they never eat meat and why they refuse to use leather for any purpose.

When several score Doukhobor boys arrived at the Industrial School at Coquitlam to remain there during the incarceration of their parents they were rubber shoes. They refused to wear leather boots, but finally were persuaded to do so.

The protest against flypaper was one of several grievances voiced by the Doukhobor women, but the flypaper has not been removed.

The couple explained they had come into contact with the members of the Oxford group and this payment of money owing was a direct result of their changed outlook on life.

Two other sums of "conscience money" have been received by P. M. Journeaux, collector of the customs and excise division of the department of national revenue, as a direct result of the Oxford group message.

Canada's 1932 Arctic Patrol Returns After A Successful Expedition To Northern Posts

Canada's 1932 expedition to the eastern islands of the Arctic archipelago has returned after a 75-day voyage on the S.S. "Ugavik". In many respects this year's patrol under the direction of the Department of the Interior, was outstanding among the voyages of recent years to the Far North. In order to effect the greatest economy in cost the Department utilized one of the Hudson's Bay Company's ships on its voyage to the various trading posts, the usual itinerary being extended to enable visits to be made to the Government posts on the far northern islands.

Altogether twenty-five calls were made during the 8,000 mile voyage. Beginning at Montreal on July 8, the "Ugavik" made its next stop at Cape Wright on the Labrador coast completing the 1,024 miles on the 14th. From there the boat proceeded to Port Burwell at the entrance to Hudson Strait, crossed the Strait to Lake Harbour, on the southern shore of the Great Slave Lake, then to Wakeham Bay, moved westward to Sukkik West and Wostenholme, and then swung into the bay for calls at Cape Cuvier and Port Harrison on the eastern shore of the bay. At Port Harrison the farthest south point of the voyage was reached and incidentally the lowest temperature of the voyage was experienced when the thermometer rose to 68 degrees.

Turning northward a call was made at Southampton Island, the boat returning to Wostenholme, and then pushing on to Dorset on Baffin Island. Lake Harbour and Hurwell each received a second visit before the boat was headed for Davis Strait and Baffin Bay. Pangnirtung, River Clyde, and Pond Inlet, Baffin Island; Craig Harbour, Devon Island; Dundas Harbour, Devon Island; and Godhavn, Greenland, were also visited during the circuit of the northern loop of the itinerary. The visit to Godhavn was the annual "good will" call at the seat of Danish local government when courtesies were exchanged.

In the course of this year's patrol ample opportunity was given members of the Government expedition to make extensive inspections at each of the posts visited. Major D. L. McClenahan, of the Department of the Interior, Officer in Charge of the expedition, made a personal visit to the posts and missions at each of the posts of call in the archipelago, taking a census of the inhabitants and surveying the health, life and general living conditions. Dr. John R. Douglas, of the Department of Pensions and National Health, held clinics at each of the northern posts and prescribed treatment whenever necessary. He reported that he was struck with the healthy condition prevailing among the native and white inhabitants of the various posts, there having been no serious outbreaks of disease during the past year. In fact, he said, the heavy frost had been during the past year by accident. Dr. J. R. West, Pathologist of the Canadian Service, and Dr. J. Y. Sandys-Wunsch, in charge of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police party, inspected the various detachments and superintended the changes of personnel at the various posts. Captain T. F. Bessie was ship's master and his crew consisted of thirty-five officers and crew.

Unusual ice and weather conditions prevailed particularly during the more northerly part of the voyage. The ice moved west from Pond Inlet Harbour, Baffin Island, on August 14, two weeks later than in previous years and six inches of snow fell at River Clyde, Baffin Island, on August 20, the day on which the expedition arrived. Several severe storms occurred, but fortunately on each occasion the expedition was in port. Heavy ice was met with and huge pans, which had not moved out of the bay, barred the way to Cape Peninsula, the most northerly post on the patrol. For fourteen hours the ship was manœuvred in Smith Sound in an effort to find an opening in the ice.

Valuable To Sailors A new radio apparatus has been designed to permit sending of facsimile weather maps from land weather bureau to ships at sea. Maps of this type may be sent in 20 minutes, giving officers of ships a detailed picture of weather conditions on the entire ocean.

Less than a hundred years ago, the only way of providing milk on ocean voyages was by carrying a cow on the ship.

barrier but without success. The cold weather experienced during the voyage prevailed during this period when the mercury dropped to 28 degrees above zero. This freezing temperature added to the dangers of being caught in the ice and the ship was forced to return to Craig Harbour on the southern shore of the island where the supplies and mail for Baie Peninsula detachment were landed. Conditions in the Far North as regards the natives were reported as very satisfactory. During the trip which included calls at the principal posts in an area extending roughly 1,200 miles north and south and 750 miles east and west, contact was made with approximately 3,600 natives or more than half the Eskimo population of the Northwest Territories. The medical examinations conducted showed that the population had been singularly free from disease during 1931-32. The year was an average one for the number of fetuses taken, far better and other wild life being fairly plentiful. There were few cases of destitution, the natives as a rule being well supplied with the necessities of life.

The highest award in the grain project was captured by Kennedy Grain Club, of Saskatchewan, represented by David Clark and Donald Murray.

The contestants were required to judge livestock, potatoes and seed and to give reasons for their decisions. The competition was sponsored by the Canadian council on boys' and girls' club work, a national organization in the provinces, and prizes and several industrial concerns.

2 WAYS at once!

More and more mothers every year turn to the double action of Vicks VapoRub in checking colds, coughs, sore throat and spasmodic croup.

Rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, Vicks acts through the skin like a plaster. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the heat of the body, are inhaled direct to the air-passages.

This double action of Vicks breaks up congestion and eases breathing, thus preventing the night coughs which so often rob both mother and child of restful sleep.

VICKS VAPORUB

Being an external treatment, Vicks is especially appropriate for mothers because it avoids the constant "coughing" which so often disturbs children's delicate digestion.

CHAPTER I

The Killers

Father Claverly, leaning against the rail of the "Midnight Sun" suddenly straightened up, stiff with shock, and stared incredulously at the six men.

For moments he could not believe he actually was witnessing a robbery. Here in this Canadian Northland where outlaws were rare and fur-tive, here on the mighty Mackenzie where river boats time and again carried the guarded cargoes of half a million in furs and gold, a brazen daylight attack upon a big steamer was simply unthinkable.

A few minutes ago the six men in a pair of birch-bark canoes had skidded out of the tributary river, the Big Alouka, and hailed the steamer as though they were merely trappers or a trading party wanting passage up south. A ladder was innocently let down for them, and they had cut aboard, taking a despicable advantage of the friendly, accommodating spirit extended from man to man in this North country.

over those rifles, for the muzzles swerved aside from him.

"Don't shoot again," he bade quietly, as one with authority. "You have killed a man. You have murdered."

The dark-faced bandit who had fired the shot blinched before that steady accusing gaze, and turned his eyes away from Father Claverly's.

"It was compel to feel them. He should not try to interfere with us." Father Claverly scorned so flimsy a justification of a brutal killing. Turning away from the bandits, he faced the crowd. Steady, clear, his voice rose:

"Men! Don't stir! Don't make a shambles of this deck. There's nothing about this boat so precious as the lives that would be lost. Let them take what they want and go peacefully."

His appeal fell on deaf ears. A slow vengeful wrath was gathering. . . . Jimmy Montgomery, known and loved all along the Mackenzie, lay murdered there on the deck. . . . Those killers were going to pay for that barbarous crime.

The snarling caters rose again; the muttering swelled audibly; hands crept down and closed upon belt-gun butts.

It was the bandit leader who stopped the rush, who stopped it dead short at one stroke. Swinging his gun at a young schoolmistress, Margaret Fournier, one of the passengers, he ordered her, "Step up here, sister;

He cocked his weapon with an audible snick and pointed it at her breast.

Recoiling that a light would turn this deck into a shambles, he prayed that somehow, by quick thinking, he could avert a battle.

There were courageous men among those fifty dead; but only one man had the quiet decency to draw a long belt-gun against six rifles.

He was Jimmy Montgomery, mate of the steamer.

Crouched beside a bale of wolf-skins, Jimmy had been soaping out those shavers to his four-year-old daughter. At the cry he glanced up, saw the bandits, understood instantly, and his face hardened. He was Mount-ed-trained, Jimmy was—seven years with the scarlet-and-gold Mainlanders of the Right. Showing his baby girl behind the wolf peltry, he whispered, "Lie down, sweet; keep down, down," and rose to his feet.

His first bullet, fired from the hip, sang between the bandits and his second knocked the floppy stetson from a bandit's head. His third was never fired. A Savage spoke out sharply, Jimmy grabbed at his breast, his revolver dropped to the boards, he swayed a moment, then sank down, shot cleanly through the heart.

Father Claverly heard a mutter arising among the crowd; heard the shuffling of feet, the half-hysterical sobbing of women, the snarling caters of men. Out of the corner of his eye he saw men glancing at one another, waiting for one of their number to raise his long yel; and he realized that this ominous, swelling mutter was the prelude of a concerted rush.

The bandits realized it, too. It was plain to Father Claverly that they had not bargained on a battle, and were covering at the prospect of rifle talk. But there was no retreating now; they would be forced to fight.

In a flash he thought he visioned this deck as it would be a few moments hence; the criminals, rifle-armed, shod from cover of the cargo, raised the blood-spattered pommel, with women and children caught in that swath of death.

In the next instant Father Claverly saw how he might stop the slaughter. Stepping forward from the rail, he uplitted his arm to draw the eyes and personal danger, thinking only of the innocent lives he might save, Father Claverly walked up closer, closer, till the criminals could have touched him with their guns. Either his calm mien or his black robe and hat had power step up close; and when she obeyed him, wild-eyed with terror, he cocked his weapon with an audible snick and pointed it at her breast.

His voice rose so that the whole deck heard.

"Now shoot! You can't get me afore I c'n get her! First move I see made with a gun, I'll give her what that gent there on the boards just got!"

Without turning or averting his rifle from the girl, he bade two of his men:

"Andre, you and John go below. Git the dust. Sort out some fur, too, good furs, six or seven hundred pounds—minks, mink, dark fox. You know what's light and valuable."

The two bandits stepped down and seized one of the crew and made him take them down the companionway. Coming up presently, they lowered their booty into the two birchbark canoes that bobbed against the side of the steamer.

As though every man aboard realized that no one dared stir, that retribution must come from elsewhere, a whisper started, spontaneously, from a dozen points at once:

"Baker! Alan Baker! Sgt. Alan Baker!"

This whisper went from neighbor to neighbor, from group to group; and men smiled grimly as they heard this mere mention of a man's name:

"Baker! Sgt. Alan Baker—at Fort Endurance."

Another of the bandits protected by that rifle pointing at Margaret Fournier's breast, balled boldly out among the passengers; and securing a fire ax, he went from boat to boat on deck, smashing their frail sides so that there could be no pursuit, no retribution, if the two canoes could only get out of rifle range of the steamer.

Seeing now that the threat to Margaret Fournier's life had checked all further action, Father Claverly walked toward the stack of wolf-skins, crossing himself as he stepped over the dark stream of blood that trickled slowly toward a scupper. Bending, he picked up the little Montgomery girl, who was looking with wide, uncomprehending eyes at the body of her father. Mercifully taking her away from there, he walked over to the rail, holding the little tot so that she could not look back.

The man beside him said in a low voice: "Look at that devil smashing the boats! They must have planned that 'caution' beforehand, so we couldn't chase 'em. But don't that big red-haired devil know we'll be spluttering their canoes afore they get ten rods gone?—G—d!—what we'll do to them six!"

The whisper spread. . . . "Wait! Wait! They start away. . . . Men folded their arms and watched quietly, biding their moment of vengeance. And then, when the canoes were loaded with their booty, the bearded leader played his last and best card. Flipping his gun at Margaret Fournier, he ordered her:

"Git down into one of them canoes, sister. We're going to carry you a couple miles up this Big Alouka here and set you off on a bar, see? We ain't meaning to harm you at all, but you got clean gone, see? But they'd better think twice about that. And I guess they will. First hunk of lead comes whistling our direction, you'll get a bullet 'squer' between them pretty eyes, sister!"

Little Helps For This Week

"He kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love, in honor preferring one another."—Romans 12:10.

"In his tongue is the law of kindness."—Proverbs 31:26.

Since trifles make the sum of human things, And half our misery from our follies springs; Since life's best joys consist in peace and ease, And though but few can serve, yet all can please; Oh, let the ungentle spirit learn from hence, A small unkindness is a great offence. —Hannah More.

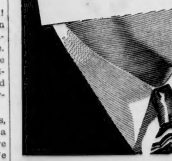

All usefulness and all comfort can be prevented by an unkind, crabbed temper of mind, a mind that can bear with no difference of opinion or temperament. A constant irritability, an unsatisfied temper, will more than neutralize all the good you can do, and render life anything but a blessing. Has Become Proficient In Chinese Language

McGill Student Learned At Laundry To Talk Fluently

If anyone persevered as much as Gordon H. Taylor, of Ottawa, the Chinese laundry business would be revolutionized into the teaching profession.

When Taylor, now entering upon his M.A. studies at McGill University, was nine years old his father sent him to the laundry to get the inevitable two dollars and one shirt. Immediately intrigued by the sing-song language he heard there he decided first to make friends with the Chinese, his later instructors in his language. This accomplished he, over a period of years, exhausted the knowledge of his instructors and was turned over to an old Chinese teacher.

Armed with his knowledge, Taylor strode into the office of Dr. Kiang Kang-hu, professor of Chinese studies at McGill University, and burst into a flood of Cantonese which left that savant gasping. A graduate of Queen's University, Taylor speaks, reads and writes the southern China dialect.

He hopes to go to China some day.

STEWARDSHIP OF LIFE

Golden Text: "First they gave their own selves to the Lord." 2 Corinthians 8:5.
Lesson: Exodus 3:1-12; Isaiah 6:1-8; Matthew 23:1-46; Mark 1:16-20; Acts 26:12-18; 1 Corinthians 9:17-27.
Devotional Reading: Matthew 6:23-34.

Explanations and Comments

Four Disciples Called To Fellowship and To Service, Mark 1:16-20. Walking along the shore of the Sea of Galilee, Jesus saw the two brothers, Peter and Andrew, casting a net in the sea, letting it down on the other side of the boat and then on the other, for they were fishermen. The sudden call of this net, W. M. Thompson explains, requires a keen eye, an active frame, and great skill in throwing. The fisherman must also be patient, watchful, and prompt in seizing the exact moment to throw. These were qualities needed by fishers of men, and Jesus called to them: "Come ye after Me, and I will make you to become fishers of men."

It is unlikely that the disciples understood at this time all that this phrase, fishers of men, meant. Jesus' ministry was an itinerant one; He pulled and beat, from place to place, teaching and preaching and healing. The nature of His work made the following ship and apprenticeship of disciples necessary. He had many things to say that only trained learners could follow. He had many things to do that only skilled followers could carry out. At once the four left their nets and followed Him.

Paul Called To Dedicate His Life To Christendom, Acts 26:12-18. It was midday on his way to Damascus to persecute the Christians that Paul saw a light brighter than that of the sun and heard a voice saying, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me? It is hard for thee to kick against the goads." Paul is really in the position of a plough-horse. Jesus is his driver and holds the guide. Paul can no more resist Jesus than the plough-horse can resist his driver.

A hand was raised immediately. "Well?" said the teacher. "Keep off the grass," said the youngster.

Aunt Mita, a negro cook, specializing in molasses cookies, was one day asked to give her recipe.

"It's an easy one," she replied. "Ah takes a cup of four, more or less, and an adds two gullups of molasses."

"But," interrupted the questioner, "what are gullups?"

"Why, none, do you not know? When you have a jug of molasses and turns it up, the molasses says 'Gullup,' runs a little more, then says 'Gullup' again. Well, ah takes those two."

DEFINITE HELP FOR DWELLERS IN APARTMENTS

Odorous way found to cook fish, cauliflower and cabbage

CANAPAR IS A PRODUCT OF HAMILTON FIRM

Lives there a woman, in apartment, duplex or home, who has not at some time or other reluctantly foregone fish, cabbage and cauliflower because of the odors they give off when being cooked? Or who has not suffered from other people close by who cooked these foods for her?

Canapar entirely does away with this annoyance. More than that, it actually improves flavor and food value. Cooking in Canapar parallels the famous French method of steaming and confining food, and its flavors to the closed casserole.

Canapar comes in large sheets, in a handy package. When boiling vegetables you simply wet the sheet of Canapar and make a bag similar to a pudding bag. If you are steaming them you line your steamer with Canapar, arrange food and seasoning, and fold back corners of the Canapar to prevent steam from dripping back.

Boiled or steamed fish is particularly delicious done this way. No fatty odor in the kitchen, no gummy kettle to clean. When roasting meat, line the pan with Canapar. It prevents the fats and juices from burning, and eliminates scaring of the pan afterwards.

Canapar saves fuel. You can cook three vegetables simultaneously in the same saucepan with it, without intermingling of flavors. And it is very economical. Just rinse the sheet after using it, hang it on the towel rack and use it over and over again.

Lots of women use Canapar for a fish and vegetable dinner and saving vegetables does not spread ill. This is a particularly good use of Canapar. To pierce the sheet with a fork, use the foot of a cleaver, or the cooking of it. Canapar is the famous heavy wadded paper in the Green box.

TARIFF CHANGES MEET OPPOSITION OF WESTERNERS

Ottawa, Ont.—The House of Commons became entangled on barbed wire today and only 11 Anglo-Canadian trade treaties were passed in the first session.

A 10 per cent. tariff against foreign barbed wire would hurt the west-ern Liberals and Progressives. They charged it would increase prices to much-harassed farmers at a time when efforts should be focused on reducing production costs.

German and Dutch manufacturers of barbed wire, said Premier R. B. Bennett, have resolved to destroy the Canadian industry, dumping large quantities in this country, demoralizing prices. The tariff increase was designed to curb the dumping of Canadian manufacturers' reasonable protection. He doubted it there would be any material increase in prices.

Finally the wire item passed but another obstacle lay ahead, 25 per cent. tariffs against foreign cream separators drew more fire than the barbed wire in a much shorter period of time. Once again opposition members said the tariff increases would raise prices to the farmers.

The United Kingdom would continue to have free entry for cream separators, said Hon. Harry Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce. Manufacturers in that country had assured him they could supply the Canadian market without increasing prices.

Hazardous Flights

United States To Keep Closer Supervision On Foeharly Airmen

Washington.—Advancing reports that United States airmen planning hazardous flights to foreign lands will have to pass strict government scrutiny in the future and may be denied permission if the undertaking seems too risky.

The aeronautics branch of the United States Department of Commerce served notice today that it will exercise closer supervision over preparations for such flights by citizens than it has in the past.

Death Of Major Sifton

Secretary-Treasurer Of Winnipeg Free Press Passes Away In Toronto, Ont.—John Wright Sifton, secretary-treasurer of the Winnipeg Free Press, died November 15.

Mr. Sifton, who was 46 years old, had lived in Toronto for some time following a long holiday in the southern United States. He died after a long illness, although his condition did not become critical until a few weeks ago.

Mr. Sifton, who was formerly Miss Christine Bell, Montreal, sur- vived.

For Armaments Reduction London, Eng.—Great Britain's war reduction of armaments by land, sea and air, Sir John Simon, secretary for foreign affairs, by a declaration before the Bureau of Disarmament Conference at Geneva, and the British Government in the form of a white paper tabled in the House of Commons today, laid down the main lines of British disarmament policy.

Loan Is Subscribed

Montreal, Que.—Beyond confirming the statement by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, that the new Dominion loan of $50,000,000 had been fully subscribed, the central campaign committee here had no information to offer. Until all the applications had been tallied up it would not be possible to state the extent of the over-subscription.

No Stigma Attached To Relief Calgary, Alta.—Declaring no stigma could be attached to those in need of relief through misfortune, the annual convention of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts rejected a resolution urging that such municipalities establish a pauper fund from which relief payments would be made.

New Duties Now Effective

Ottawa Trade Agreements Now Law In Britain

London, Eng.—The Ottawa agree- ments will implement the United Kingdom's new trade pacts with the Dominion as they become law. New duties set out in the bill became effective at midnight, November 16, replacing those of the Import Duties Act passed last year.

The bill was given third reading by the House of Lords and immediately afterwards obtained royal assent by commission.

Meanwhile a treasury order was issued extending, without interrupt- ing, general empire preferences and special tariffs imposed under the Im- port Duties Act. Another order made the Ottawa preferences effective. Had no agreements been reached at Ottawa, the preference would have lapsed November 15.

The treasury order continued prefer- ences on goods from the dominions of the British Empire with the exception of the Irish Free State, which will conclude an agreement with the United Kingdom at a later date.

Remaining provisions of the Ot- tawa Agreements Act, brought into force, gave the government powers and duties of the treasury and the board of trade which require no im- mediate action.

Members Of Parliament Voted In Repeal Of Higher Mathematics Ottawa, Ont.—Braid members of parliament reached for pencils and scratch pads when discussing changes in the Canadian tariff resulting from the Anglo-Canadian trade treaty.

Liberals were in an agitated mood, wanting to know to what levels the exchange dumping duties, excise duties and sales tax would elevate tariff items specified in the agree- ment. E. J. Young (Lib., Weyburn), and ardent free-trader, said a 29 per cent. tariff against British-made kitchenware became 47 per cent. when the extra imports were added. United States kitchenware paid 30 per cent.

Pencils and paper appeared on the desks. Members began involved cal- culations, most of them giving up in disgust when the realities of higher mathematics were reached.

Youths To Be Spanked

Attorney-General Makes Punishment Fit The Crime

Victoria, B.C.—British Columbia youths who think it is smart to drink in beer parlors will be punished by the old-fashioned method used by fathers of the last generation in the woods.

They will be spanked in the place provided by nature for such correc- tion, under arrangements instituted by the Attorney-General's Department. This interesting new punishment, designed to chastise boys, without confining them with criminals in jail, was outlined by Attorney-General R. H. Pooley when he was called on to review the case of two Kamloops youngsters. They were convicted of drinking in a pair of the town of Chase and drinking beer in a beer parlor there, although they were minors and not entitled to enter such premises.

Of the total number mentioned, said Mr. Gordon, it was estimated that 144,000 were people who had not worked very steadily since 1919. An- other 100,000 were what were known as transients, 50 per cent. of whom were recent arrivals in Canada.

Thief Drops Loot

Jewelry Taken From Residence In Victoria

Vancouver, B.C.—"Was my face red!" the thief probably remarked as he told of his night's venture.

He made a clean get-away with $1,900 worth of jewelry from the home of Mrs. G. M. Higley, taking the dresser drawer in which it was concealed. He cross-countryed back- yards and hurried fences until in the safety of his hide-out he looked to drag again over his face.

The drawer was empty. The denouement came Wednesday when the jewelry was found in an ad- joining yard from the home from which it was stolen. The thief had dropped it as he carefully guarded the worthless drawer in the course of his post-Olympic effort.

Income Tax Collections

Increase Is Shown In Figures Issued At Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont.—An increase of $450,- 454 in income tax collections is shown in the figures issued by the Department of National Revenue. The total for October, 1921, was $925,415, and for last month $1,284,885.

For the seven months of the fiscal year ending October 31, collections have in- creased by $2,325,998 over the same period last year. Total collections were $50,546,912 in the 1921 period and $67,872,510 this year.

EVOLVE PLAN IN EUROPE TO AID UNEMPLOYMENT

Paris, France.—The creation of an economic consortium by Great Brit- ain, France and Germany which is designed to assist in the return of prosperity and in coping with the un- employed problem, was announced by Raymond Patenotre, who will be in charge of its operations.

"We foresee," said Mr. Patenotre, "a return of prosperity by the natural process of the development of indus- trialization."

The unemployed in the smaller de- pressed countries will be given work, while the jobs in the larger coun- tries will be relieved by the operation of factories.

The plan was described as a com- bination of French capital and Ger- man industry, with guarantees cov- ering the subjects of insurance, secu- rity and non-competition.

The first project of the consortium will be the offer of a loan of 17,000,- 000,000 francs (currently $80,000,- 000) for the electrification of rail- ways in Poland, Roumania, Iraq and Portugal.

The Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune said France and Ger- many would provide 40 per cent of this loan each, and Germany would furnish 20 per cent.

The consortium will consist of three syndicates.—Franco-German finan- cial experts, British, French and Ger- man bankers, and a Franco-German syndicate designed to carry out recommendations of the banking group in the electrification projects.

M. Patenotre said the organization was purely an economic agreement.

Ottawa, Ont.—Exports to foreign countries increased by $1,088,178 dur- ing October, according to figures re- leased by the Department of National Revenue.

Last month's exports had a value of $6,626,085, as against $55,537,917 for October, 1921. Re-exports were $51,279 compared with $96,682 for the same month last year.

A heavy decline in imports from $45,932,572 in October a year ago to $7,082,296 last month, boosted Cana- da's export balance to $10,974,068.

Russia's Food Problem Is Becoming Serious

People Are Now Subsisting On Most Stringent Rations

Moscow, Russia.—On the eve of the conclusion of the five-year plan—which is being ended in four years—Soviet Russia is struggling with the old and difficult problem of food for its people.

The food situation is bound to be one of the chief problems of the second five-year plan, now in the process of drafting. Russians are subsisting on most stringent rations.

There is a serious shortage of such commodities as wheat, sugar and butter. In the second plan, by all indica- tions, greater emphasis than ever will be placed on the improvement of general living standards.

Although the state of the country's food supply is admittedly bad—some Russians say it is worse than in 1928, when the five-year plan started—no facts are available here to bear out dire predictions heard abroad of widespread suffering this winter. On the contrary, the 1922 harvest is ex- pected to ease present harsh condi- tions to some extent.

The country failed last year to achieve planned increase in industrial production, but 1922 will record ap- preciable increases over the previous year.

Policy Unchanged

Relief Administration For West In Discussed At Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont.—Details of unem- ployed relief administration in Mani- toba and Saskatchewan were dis- cussed when Hon. M. A. Macpherson, provincial treasurer of Saskatchewan, and Hon. Ewen Macpherson, provincial treasurer of Manitoba, conferred with Harry Herford, director of un- employment relief in Canada.

The meeting followed a conference with Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, last night, when Hon. George Herford, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, was also present.

No change in the general policy governing relief in western Canada was decided upon, it is understood.

PRINCE GIVEN WARM WELCOME IN N. IRELAND

Belfast, Northern Ireland.—Citizens of Belfast and the surrounding coun- tystride turned out in record numbers to give the Prince of Wales an opem- ard welcome when he set foot on the island of Ireland for the first time—a welcome that overshadowed a display of bad temper by arriving nationalists.

When the prince objected in the last group of bombing planes saluted from overhead. Dockside workers waved flags and sent up such cheers as "God Save the King" and "God Save the Prince of Wales" as two warships scarcely drowned them out.

Earlier, an effort that might have had dire consequences was made to prevent sightseers from coming to Belfast to see the prince, smiling good naturedly, take part in a five-mile parade to Stormont where he dedicated the new northern Ireland Parliament Buildings.

Long sections of the railroad be- tween Kelly, County Meath, in the Free State, and Belfast, were torn up, and other parts of the road were closed. Buses also were ripped up in the vicinity of Cavan, also in the Free State.

At one end of the breaks in the train were placed notices reading "Ireland belongs to the Irish, both north and south." Red flags were placed at points where the rails were broken.

The Prince, wearing the uniform of a colonel of the Irish Guards, was accompanied by the Duke of Abercorn, Governor of Ulster, Viscount Craig- avon, the Prime Minister, and Sir R. Dawson Bates, secretary for home affairs. They stepped ashore amid wild cheering.

Of the 12,000 men on guard along the five mile route to Stormont, 4,000 were armed soldiers and police and 8,000 were volunteer Orangemen.

The Prince recalled the heroic part played by Ulster in the World War when he stepped ashore with dedica- tion.

"It is my father's earnest prayer," he said, "that you will meet all those difficulties which confront the world as well as your own special problems with the courage, tenacity, industry and devotion which has al- ways characterized the men of north- ern Ireland and made them famous in the annals of the empire."

BRITISH PLAN FOR THE SOLVING OF ARMS ISSUE

Geneva, Switzerland.—Great Brit- ain made a definite move to bring Germany back into the disarmament conference today when Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, sub- mitted to the conference a plan in- volving the submission of a plan de- signed to satisfy the German demand for arms equality.

The British plan for solving the equality issue rests upon four points. First: It provides for the re-disarm- ing by the European powers of the Kellogg pact.

Second: The plan provides that "limitation of Germany's armaments should be accomplished by the same disarmament convention which will define the limitations of the arma- ments of others."

Third, Sir John explained, means that Germany's new treaty, voluntarily accepted by all, will substitute disarmament and her defeated allies in the World War the restrictive clauses of the peace treat- ties.

Third: "The newly expressed limita- tions in the case of Germany would be for the same period as they are subject to the same methods of revision as those for all other countries."

Fourth: The point concerns Ger- many's request that she be permitted the same kind of arms as the others.

War Debt Course

Hoover Is Opposed To Policy Of Debt Extension

Washington.—Gathering his advi- sors around him, President Herbert Hoover plunged today deep into con- sideration of the United States war debt course and of the policies his administration will pursue until its March 4 conclusion.

Mr. Hoover, secretary of the treasury, discussed the policies to be out- lined shortly by the Federal Reserve Board from Great Britain, France and other debtors for a review of their obliga- tions and for a suspension of pay- ments due December 15.

Although the president himself re- mained silent in debt matters, as pos- sibly he may until the closer approach of his conference with Franklin D. Roosevelt, the president-elect, Mr. Hoover was represented in authorita- tive quarters as definitely opposed to another year's moratorium.

The president is not convinced, it was said, that all payments due the United States December 15, will not be made and feels that a more rigid attitude should be adopted than any wholesale suspension of these pay- ments.

Preference For Canadian Ports

Will Be Used Wherever Possible For Overseas Wharves Shippers

Winnipeg, Man.—All things being equal, western exporters of grain will continue to use Canadian Atlantic and Pacific ports for the movement of wheat to the United Kingdom.

Leading grain shippers interviewed by the Canadian Press stated that wherever possible Canadian ports were given the preference in handling Canadian grain for shipment over- seas.

Many Post Offices Closed

Ottawa, Ont.—A total of 545 post offices have been closed in Canada since August 1, 1920, according to a return filed in the House of Com- mons. New post offices opened since that date numbered 278, of which 117 "covered their expenses."

May Revise Pension Act

Ottawa, Ont.—Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, intimated in the House of Commons today that a general revision of the old age pension legis- lation might take place at the ad- journed parliamentary session next Jan- uary.

No Benefit Seen

Montreal, Eng.—The Manchester Chamber of Commerce believes re- ductions in the Canadian tariff al- ready announced are unlikely to en- able Manitoba textile and wool textile exporters appreciably to in- crease their trade.

Must Stay Put

Calgary, Alberta.—Alberta relief commission has announced efforts to check the wandering of single un- employed men in the province. The commission has ruled single workless seeking relief will have to acquire it at the place they are now located.
